Hackney's Conservation Areas

Conservation areas are areas of special historic interest which contribute to Hackney's unique identity.

Clapton Square Conservation Area was one of the Borough's first conservation areas; embracing some of the oldest residential and community buildings in Hackney. This timely review reassesses the character of this conservation area in a detailed appraisal and will be used to inform the management of future change and development within and adjoining the Clapton Square Conservation Area.

Full details of the proposal, set out in the Conservation Area Appraisal are available on-line (www.hackney.gov.uk/planning-consultation) and at the Planning Reception located on the ground floor of 263 Mare Street.

Please e-mail any feedback to Archika Kumar at archika.kumar@hackney.gov.uk, or alternatively please post your response to the address below.

For further queries please call 020 8356 8033.

Comments should be made before 16th July 2007.

Your views are important and will be taken into consideration before the final version of the appraisal is published later this year.
